What Do I Owe The Lord?

Unlike most of our great-great-grandparents, we live a life of financial indebtedness. According to an article on the Ramsey Solutions website, 77% of American households have at least some type of debt at an average of $58,609 per adult. This includes credit cards, student loans, auto loans, and mortgages.

Debt in its simplest terms means owing someone payment for any reason. Without the present financial system, most of us could not buy a house, car, or many of the other possessions we have.

When it comes to things spiritual, we serve God with an unpayable indebtedness. The price paid for our sin by Jesus when He was crucified, can never be repaid by human merit (Ephesians 2:8-9; Titus 3:4-5). Nevertheless, we owe the Lord a life of worship and service because He forgave us and saved us from everlasting destruction (2 Thessalonians 1:8-9). Unfortunately, we sometimes give greater loyalty to the people in our lives than we do to God; when we do, we're no longer worthy of Jesus (Matthew 10:37). We must constantly remind ourselves that:

- We owe Him more than we owe our parents
- We owe Him more than we owe our children
- We owe Him more than we owe our friends
- We owe Him more than we owe our employer
- We owe Him more than we owe ourselves

We sing the old song, "He paid a debt He did not owe; Christ Jesus paid the debt that I can never pay." And for that, we owe Him everything!

-Jay Launius (Maud, TX)

Worship service will be live streamed live every Sunday morning at 10:30 on <https://www.facebook.com/Columbianachurchofchrist/> and on the website www.columbianachurchofchrist.org.
