Sleep Well

"I will both lie down in peace and sleep, for You alone, O Lord, make me dwell in safety" (Psalm 4:8).

Lack of sleep is a major issue in our culture. It is a growing concern for corporations and industry. Millions of dollars are lost yearly because of low productivity due to a lack of rest. I can attest to poor performance in the classroom because of sleep deprivation.

Psalm 4 is a lament. Many are surprised to learn that laments are the most common type of psalm, but life is pretty messy and disappointing at times. While not all laments end in praise or resolution, many do.

Here, David is distressed by his present circumstances, yet he recognizes that God will bless him eventually. Therefore, he can lie down and sleep peacefully. His trust is in God. That is why this psalm is sometimes called "the evening prayer." Coupled with the fifth psalm (known as the morning prayer), it provides a comforting rhythm of life. Trust in the Lord at night, seek the Lord's guidance by day.

Peaceful and adequate sleep is a spiritual discipline – especially in times of trial. It is a choice. Trust that God will provide. Trust that God will grant you the peace you seek.

Sleep well, my friend. God is near.
