Just Wait

That's a phrase that I've found myself using a lot – especially with a 3-year-old. He's always wanting to do something – to go outside, to go inside, to ride his truck, to play in the sprinklers, to mow the grass, to trim the bushes, to climb stuff, etc. We can't do it all, and so, he hears, "Just wait," a lot.

It's hard to wait, though, isn't it? It's especially difficult when we're forced to wait for things out of our control. God's plan doesn't work on our timetables. It works on His time.

Today, for what do you need to "just wait"? For what have you tried to work in the past when you needed to wait? How will today be different?
